Temporary margin dip and slowdown in order momentum expected in Q2

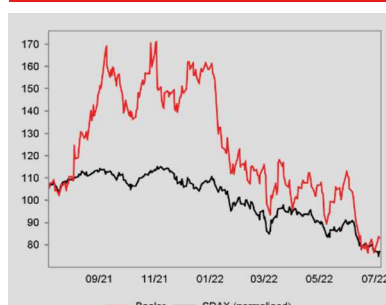

Expected Figures Q2/2022:							Comment on Figures:
FY End: 31.12. in EUR m	Q2 22e	Q2 21	yoy	6M 22e	6M 21	yoy

Margin	9.8 %	18.0 %		11.9 %	18.0 %
EPS	0.46	0.80	-43 %	1.14	1.57	-27 %

We expect Basler to hit a margin low in the second quarter, mainly for two reasons: (1) As a result of the high order backlog at the beginning of the year (EUR 141m), we expect a significant part of sales to come from orders placed before the price increases at the beginning of the year. (2) In the first quarter, the margin was strong (EBT margin 13.9%), partly due to low R&D costs and solid capacity utilisation. In Q2, we expect a slightly lower top line compared to Q1 (-3.6%), but a moderate increase in opex (+5.6%).

The supply situation should be comparable to the first quarter in terms of pricing and availability. While most components are available without a significant spot market premium, a small number of critical parts, such as FPAs, remain in short supply and come at significantly higher prices. However, profitability will not be primarily impacted by the increased prices for a smaller number of components, but the temporary underutilisation due to limited availability. For H2, we expect only slight improvements in shortages and a positive effect from the price increase for Basler's products at the beginning of the year as well as a full-year EBT margin above the current target range. Order momentum should slow down, but considering the high backlog (EUR >150m), the company should still be able to exceed the upper end of the sales guidance.

Moreover, Basler is making progress with its mid-term strategy. On Tuesday, the company announced that both transactions, the joint venture with the French distributor i2S (Basler France) and the acquisition of the Italian distributor Advanced Technologies (Basler Italy), have been closed successfully. As a result, Basler should generate approx. 80% of its revenue through direct sales. Without a third-party distributor, Basler should be able to grow its top line through cross-selling, even if the underlying markets fall into a moderate recession. Against this background, we confirm our estimates for the coming years and remain confident that Basler will reach its 2025 sales target of EUR 400m.

In light of the prime rate development, we have decided to increase the risk-free rate again by 75bps to 2.75%. As a consequence, we have reduced our DCF-based price target from EUR 150 to EUR 127. The Buy recommendation is confirmed.

- Payment for the acquisitions of DATVISION and IOVIS are accounted for in the "others" line

Free Cash Flow Value Potential

Warburg Research's valuation tool "FCF Value Potential" reflects the ability of the company to generate sustainable free cash flows. It is based on the "FCF potential" - a FCF "ex growth" figure - which assumes unchanged working capital and pure maintenance capex. A value indication is derived via the perpetuity of a given year's "FCF potential" with consideration of the weighted costs of capital. The fluctuating value indications over time add a timing element to the DCF model (our preferred valuation tool).

DISCLOSURE ACCORDING TO §85 OF THE GERMAN SECURITIES TRADING ACT (WPHG), MAR AND MIFID II INCL. COMMISSION DELEGATED REGULATION (EU) 2016/958 AND (EU) 2017/565

The valuation underlying the investment recommendation for the company analysed here is based on generally accepted and widely used methods of fundamental analysis, such as e.g. DCF Model, Free Cash Flow Value Potential, NAV, Peer Group Comparison or Sum of the Parts Model (see also <http://www.mmwarburg.de/disclaimer/disclaimer.htm#Valuation>). The result of this fundamental valuation is modified to take into consideration the analyst's assessment as regards the expected development of investor sentiment and its impact on the share price.

Independent of the applied valuation methods, there is the risk that the price target will not be met, for instance because of unforeseen changes in demand for the company's products, changes in management, technology, economic development, interest rate development, operating and/or material costs, competitive pressure, supervisory law, exchange rate, tax rate etc. For investments in foreign markets and instruments there are further risks, generally based on exchange rate changes or changes in political and social conditions.

This commentary reflects the opinion of the relevant author at the point in time of its compilation. A change in the fundamental factors underlying the valuation can mean that the valuation is subsequently no longer accurate. Whether, or in what time frame, an update of this commentary follows is not determined in advance.

Additional internal and organisational arrangements to prevent or to deal with conflicts of interest have been implemented. Among these are the spatial separation of Warburg Research GmbH from M.M.Warburg & CO (AG & Co.) KGaA and the creation of areas of confidentiality. This prevents the exchange of information, which could form the basis of conflicts of interest for Warburg Research GmbH in terms of the analysed issuers or their financial instruments.

The analysts of Warburg Research GmbH do not receive a gratuity – directly or indirectly – from the investment banking activities of M.M.Warburg & CO (AG & Co.) KGaA or of any company within the Warburg-Group.

All prices of financial instruments given in this investment recommendation are the closing prices on the last stock-market trading day before the publication date stated, unless another point in time is explicitly stated.

M.M.Warburg & CO (AG & Co.) KGaA and Warburg Research GmbH are subject to the supervision of the Federal Financial Supervisory Authority, BaFin. M.M.Warburg & CO (AG & Co.) KGaA is additionally subject to the supervision of the European Central Bank (ECB).
